

Interschutz 2015: News from CASCO

One High-Light of this year's Interschutz will be the light helmet CASCO PF 100 Rescue, which has a weight of just 500 gram and fulfils both new safety standards for technical rescue (EN 16473) and fire and wild fire combat (EN 16471). This multifunctional helmet is also accepted as head protection for canoeing and white water sports (EN 1385).

The CASCO PF 100 Rescue weights as much as two pieces of butter and sets a new benchmark for lightweight helmets: its special combination shell structure features a robust hard shell made of flame-retardant Ronfalin and a lighter in-mould inner shell for added lateral impact protection. Thanks to this unique shell construction, the PF 100 Rescue is not just light and robust, but also offers very good vibration dampening along its sides.

The helmet is equipped with excellent ventilation and has an outstanding comfortable interior. Other original accessories such as a winter kit, visor, mesh visor, hearing protection, and neck protectors are also permitted with this helmet.
